Additional Information

Questions were asked about ten facets of a community including: economy; mobility; community design; utilities; safety; natural environment; parks and recreation; health and wellness; education, arts, and culture; and inclusivity and engagement.

11% 7,500 households were selected to receive the survey. 2% of surveys were returned. Response rate of 11%.

95% 95% confidence interval and +/- 3.5% margin of error.

400K Results compared to national benchmark of municipalities and custom benchmark of those with a population over 400,000.

1,093 An open-participation portion of the survey was open to all City residents with 1,093 responses reported separately.

About The NCS™

The National Community Survey™ (The NCS™) report is about the “livability” of Sacramento. A livable community is a place that is not simply habitable, but that is desirable. It is not only where people do live, but where they want to live. The survey was developed by the experts from National Research Center at Polco.

Great communities are partnerships of the government, private sector, community-based organizations and residents, all geographically connected. The NCS captures residents’ opinions considering ten central facets of a community:

- Economy
- Mobility
- Community Design
- Utilities
- Safety
- Natural Environment
- Parks and Recreation
- Health and Wellness
- Education, Arts, and Culture
- Inclusivity and Engagement

POWERED BY POLCO

The report provides the opinions of a representative sample of 790 residents of the City of Sacramento collected from October 5, 2023 to November 30, 2023. The margin of error around any reported percentage is 3.5% for all respondents and the response rate for the 2023 survey was 11%. Survey results were weighted so that the demographic profile of respondents was representative of the demographic profile of adults in Sacramento.

How the results are reported

For the most part, the percentages presented in the following tabs represent the “percent positive.” Most commonly, the percent positive is the combination of the top two most positive response options (i.e., excellent/good, very safe/somewhat safe, etc.). On many of the questions in the survey respondents may answer “don’t know.” The proportion of respondents giving this reply is shown in the full set of responses included in the tab “Complete data.” However, these responses have been removed from the analyses presented in most of the tabs. In other words, the tables and graphs display the responses from respondents who had an opinion about a specific item.

Comparisons to benchmarks

NRC’s database of comparative resident opinion is comprised of resident perspectives gathered in surveys from over 500 communities whose residents evaluated the same kinds of topics on The National Community Survey. The national comparison evaluations are from the most recent survey completed in each community in the last five years. NRC adds the latest results quickly upon survey completion, keeping the benchmark data fresh and relevant. The communities in the database represent a wide geographic and population range. National benchmarks are included in a separate tab in the report.

Sacramento additionally selected to receive benchmark scores from a custom subset of twenty communities in NRC's database that exceed populations of 400,000. These custom comparisons are found throughout the report as well as in their own tab. In each tab, Sacramento's results are noted as being “higher” than the custom benchmark, “lower” than the benchmark, or “similar” to the benchmark, meaning that the average rating given by Sacramento residents is statistically similar to or different (greater or lesser) than the benchmark. Being rated as “higher” or “lower” than the benchmark means that Sacramento's average rating for a particular item was more than 10 points different than the benchmark. If a rating was “much higher” or “much lower,” then Sacramento's average rating was more than 20 points different when compared to the benchmark.

The survey was administered after the COVID-19 pandemic, a time of challenge for many local governments. While we provide comparisons to both national and custom benchmarks, it is important to note that much of the benchmark data was collected prior to or during the pandemic. This may impact how your City's 2023 ratings compare to other communities’ ratings from the past five years.

Trends over time

Trend data for Sacramento represent important comparison data and should be examined for improvements or declines.<sup>1</sup> Deviations from stable trends over time represent opportunities for understanding how local policies, programs, or public information may have affected residents' opinions. Changes between survey years have been noted with an arrow and the percent difference. If the difference is greater than five percentage points between the 2022 and 2023 surveys, the change is statistically significant.

1. In 2020, The NCS survey was updated to include new and refreshed items. Consequently, some of the trends may be impacted due to wording modifications that could have potentially altered the meaning of the item for the respondent.

Methods

Selecting survey recipients

All households within the City of Sacramento were eligible to participate in the survey. A list of all households within the zip codes serving Sacramento was purchased from Polco's mailing vendor, Go-Dog Direct, based on updated listings from the United States Postal Service. Since some of the zip codes that serve the City of Sacramento households may also serve addresses that lie outside of the community, the exact geographic location of each housing unit was compared to community boundaries using the most current municipal boundary file. Addresses located outside of the City of Sacramento boundaries were removed from the list of potential households to survey. Each address identified as being within city boundaries was further identified as being within one of the eight City Council districts (council districts were redrawn in January 2022 and therefore may not be directly comparable in prior years due to the changes in the district boundaries). From that list, addresses were randomly selected as survey recipients, with multi-family housing units (defined as those with a unit number) sampled at a rate of 5:3 compared to single family housing units. The surveys mailed by district are as follows:

District 1: 850
District 2: 1,175
District 3: 1,250
District 4: 650
District 5: 1,075
District 6: 700
District 7: 500
District 8: 1300

Due to historically low response rates, Districts 2, 3, 5, and 8 were oversampled to increase representation from the districts.

An individual within each household was randomly selected using the "birthday method". The birthday method selects a person within the household by asking the "person who most recently had a birthday" to complete the questionnaire. The underlying assumption in this method is that day of birth has no relationship to the way people respond to surveys. This instruction was contained in the introduction of the survey.

Conducting the survey

The 7,500 randomly selected households received mailings beginning on October 5, 2023 and data collection for the survey remained open for eight weeks. The first mailing was a postcard inviting the household to participate in the survey. The next mailing contained a cover letter with instructions, the survey questionnaire, and a postage-paid return envelope. The final mailing was a reminder postcard inviting the household one final time to participate in the survey. All mailings included a web link and QR code to give residents the opportunity to respond to the survey online. All follow-up mailings asked those who had not completed the survey to do so, and those who had already done so to refrain from completing the survey again.

About 2% of the 7,500 mailed invitations or surveys were returned because the household address was vacant or the postal service was unable to deliver the survey as addressed. Of the remaining 7,344 households that received the invitations to participate, 790 completed the survey, providing an overall response rate of 11%. The response rate was calculated using AAPOR's response rate #2 for mailed surveys of unnamed persons.<sup>2</sup>

It is customary to describe the precision of estimates made from surveys by a "level of confidence" and accompanying "confidence interval" (or margin of error). A traditional level of confidence, and the one used here, is 95%. The 95% confidence interval can be any size and quantifies the sampling error or imprecision of the survey results because some residents' opinions are relied on to estimate all residents' opinions. The margin of error for the City of Sacramento survey is no greater than plus or minus 3.5 percentage points around any given percent reported for all respondents (790 completed surveys).

In addition to the randomly selected "probability sample" of households, a link to an online open-participation survey was publicized by the City of Sacramento. The open-participation survey was identical to the random sample survey, with two small updates; it asked a question to confirm the respondent was a resident of Sacramento and also a question about where they heard about the survey. The open-participation survey was open to all city residents and became available on November 2, 2023. The survey remained open for four weeks. The data presented in the following tabs exclude the open participation survey data, but a tab at the end provides the complete frequency of responses to questions by the open-participation respondents.

Analyzing the data

Responses from mailed surveys were entered into an electronic dataset using a “key and verify” method, where all responses are entered twice and compared to each other. Any discrepancies were resolved in comparison to the original survey form. Range checks as well as other forms of quality control were also performed. Responses from surveys completed on Polco were downloaded and merged with the mailed survey responses.

The demographics of the survey respondents were compared to those found in the 2020 Census and 2022 American Community Survey estimates for adults in the City of Sacramento. The primary objective of weighting survey data is to make the survey respondents reflective of the larger population of the community. The characteristics used for weighting were age, sex, race, Hispanic origin, housing type, housing tenure, and district. No adjustments were made for design effects. Weights were calculated using an iterative, multiplicative raking model known as the ANES Weighting Algorithm.<sup>3</sup> The results of the weighting scheme for the probability sample are presented in the following table.

NRC aligns demographic labels with those used by the U.S. Census for reporting purposes, when possible. Some categories (e.g., age, race/Hispanic origin, housing type, and length of residency) are combined into smaller subgroups.

The survey datasets were analyzed using all or some of a combination of the Statistical Package for the Social Sciences (SPSS), R, Python and Tableau. For the most part, the percentages presented in the reports represent the “percent positive.” The percent positive is the combination of the top two most positive response options (i.e., excellent/good, very safe/somewhat safe, essential/very important, etc.), or, in the case of resident behaviors/participation, the percent positive represents the proportion of respondents indicating “yes” or participating in an activity at least once a month.

On many of the questions in the survey respondents may answer “don’t know.” The proportion of respondents giving this reply is shown in the full set of responses included in the tab “Complete data”. However, these responses have been removed from the analyses presented in the reports. In other words, the tables and graphs display the responses from respondents who had an opinion about a specific item.

Study Limitations

All public opinion research is subject to unmeasured error. While the methodologies employed for this survey were designed to minimize this error as much as possible, these other sources of potential error should be acknowledged. Non-response error arises when those who were selected to participate in the survey did not do so, and may have different opinions or experiences than those who did respond. Coverage error refers to the possibility that some respondents that should have been included in the surveyed population were not (e.g., for a general resident survey, USPS mailing lists may exclude certain types of housing units, such as multi-family buildings where mail is delivered to a common area rather than to a specific unit (though this is rare), or where mail is received at a PO box instead of the at household's physical location. Finally, recall bias occurs when respondents may not perfectly remember their experiences in the past year (such as participation in social or civic events), and social desirability bias may cause respondents to answer in ways they think cast their responses in a more favorable light.

Highlights

Mobility is a potential area for growth in Sacramento.

Understood as the ease with which residents can move around their community for leisure or business, the facet of mobility is a key driver of resident satisfaction. All ratings within this facet were similar to comparison communities and most remained in line with 2022 evaluations, but the relatively low overall quality (29% excellent or good) and high importance scores (79% essential or very important) for Sacramento's transportation system could suggest interest in additional focus on mobility issues. Half of all survey participants gave excellent or good marks to the ease of travel by car; the ease of travel by bicycle and the ease of walking earned similarly positive reviews from about 4 in 10 residents. Evaluations for the traffic flow on major streets and the ease of public parking each garnered favorable ratings from approximately 3 in 10. Roughly 21% offered positive evaluations of the ease of travel by public transportation.

About 4 in 10 respondents rated street lighting, traffic signal timing, sidewalk maintenance, and street cleaning as excellent or good. One-third of city residents were similarly pleased with traffic enforcement and bus or transit services; street repair also garnered favorable reviews by one-quarter of participants.

Ratings for safety services improved in some areas, but overall safety remains a challenge for the City.

Evaluations of emergency preparedness experienced an 11% improvement over the 2022 survey, receiving 46% excellent or good reviews this year. Ambulance or emergency medical services (72%) and fire prevention and education (54%) also increased by 9% and 6%, respectively. About 8 in 10 residents offered positive reviews of fire services, and about half did the same for animal control. Each of these matched the custom benchmarks. In contrast, below-average scores were given for police services (40%) and crime prevention (22%).

Seventy-eight percent of residents stated they felt very safe or somewhat safe in their neighborhood during the day, on par with other large cities. Feelings of safety from fire, flood, and other natural disaster garnered positive reviews by about two-thirds of residents, similar to the benchmark. When asked about the overall feeling of safety in Sacramento, however, fewer than one-third of participants said the same about their overall feeling of safety in the city, below the benchmarks. Half of survey participants felt safe in Sacramento's downtown/commercial area and from violent crime, and about 4 in 10 participants stated they felt safe from property crime; all of these scores fell below comparison communities. Each of these scores remained stable from the 2022 iteration of the survey.

Residents point to investments in affordable housing and community well-being as the top priorities for Measure U funds.

In this survey iteration, the City asked residents to prioritize potential uses for funds generated by the Measure U sales tax passed in 2018. About 85% of respondents stated affordable housing/homeless supportive services and community-based mental health and wellness were both of high or medium priority. Nearly 8 in 10 provided similar marks for community response services and public safety services. About 7 in 10 residents prioritized community investment and neighborhood empowerment, infrastructure/capital improvements, public libraries, public parks, senior programs, street maintenance, transportation, and youth programs.

Facets of livability

Every jurisdiction must balance limited resources while meeting resident needs and striving to optimize community livability. To this end, it is helpful to know what aspects of the community are most important to residents and which they perceive as being of higher or lower quality. It is especially helpful to know when a facet of livability is considered of high importance but rated as lower quality, as this should be a top priority to address.

Quality-Importance Matrix

To help guide City staff and officials with decisions on future resource allocation, resident ratings of the importance of facets were compared to their ratings of the quality of these facets. To identify the services perceived by residents to have relatively lower quality at the same time as relatively higher importance, all facets were ranked from highest perceived quality to lowest perceived quality and from highest perceived importance to lowest perceived importance. Some facets were in the top half of both lists (higher quality and higher importance); some were in the top half of one list but the bottom half of the other (higher quality and lower importance or lower quality and higher importance); and some facets were in the bottom half of both lists.

Facets receiving quality ratings of excellent or good by 49% (the median result) or more of respondents were considered of “higher quality” and those with ratings lower than 49% (the median result) were considered to be of “lower quality.” Services were classified as “more important” if they were rated as essential or very important by 74% (the median result) or more of respondents. Services were rated as “less important” if they received a rating of less than 74% (the median result). This classification uses the median ratings for quality and importance to divide the services in half.

The quadrants in the figure below show which community facets were given higher or lower importance ratings (right-left) and which had higher or lower quality ratings (up-down). Facets of livability falling closer to a diagonal line from the lower left to the upper right are those where performance ratings are more commensurate with resident priorities. Facets scoring closest to the lower right hand corner of the matrix (higher in importance and lower in quality) are those that may warrant further investigation to see if changes to their delivery are necessary to improve their performance. This is the key part of this chart on which to focus. Facets falling in the top left hand corner of the chart (lower in importance but higher in quality) are areas where performance may outscore resident priorities, and may be a consideration for lower resource allocation.

Quality and Importance by the Numbers

The charts below show the proportion of residents who rated the community facets positively for quality and the priority (importance) placed on each. Also displayed is whether local ratings were lower, similar, or higher than communities across the country with populations greater than 400,000 (the custom benchmark).

National Benchmark Tables

This table contains the comparisons of Sacramento's results to those from other communities. The first column shows the comparison of Sacramento's rating to the benchmark. Sacramento's results are noted as being "higher", "lower" or "similar" to the benchmark, meaning that the average rating given by Sacramento residents is statistically similar to or different than the benchmark. The second column is Sacramento's "percent positive." Most commonly, the percent positive is the combination of the top two most positive response options (i.e., excellent/good). The third column is the rank assigned to Sacramento's rating among communities where a similar question was asked. The fourth column is the number of communities that asked a similar question. The fifth column shows the percentile for Sacramento's result -- that is what percent of surveyed communities had a lower rating than Sacramento.

Full Trends

This table contains the trends over time for the City of Sacramento. The combined "percent positive" responses for each survey year are presented (e.g., excellent/good or yes). If an item was not included during an administration of the survey, no percentage will be shown in the table. If the difference between the 2022 and 2023 surveys is greater than five percentage points, the change is statistically significant.

It is important to note that in 2020, The NCS survey was updated to include new and refreshed items. Consequently, some of the trends may be impacted due to wording modifications that could have potentially altered the meaning of the item for the respondent.

Complete Data

This dashboard contains a complete set of responses to each question on the survey. By default, "don't know" responses are excluded. In some tables, the percentages may not sum to 100%; this is either because the question permitted the respondent to "choose all that apply," or for a question that asked the respondent to select one answer, it is due to the customary practice of rounding values to the nearest whole number. Listed below the percentage for each rating is the number of respondents that selected the respective answer choice.

Statistical Significance Thresholds

Below you may select a demographic to find the thresholds for statistically significant differences between groups (i.e. the minimum difference between groups to be considered statistically significant based on the sample sizes). Use the drop down menu to the right to select demographic dimensions. If there were no responses within a specific demographic option, that option will not appear in the dashboard.

Age

18-34		12%	11%
35-54	12%		8%
55+	11%	8%

Comparison of Responses by Respondent Characteristics (Age)

The comparison tables contain the cross tabulations of selected survey questions by respondent characteristics. Responses have been summarized to show only the proportion of respondents giving a positive answer; for example, the percent of respondents who rated the quality of life as excellent or good. For each pair of subgroups that has a statistically significant difference, an upper-case letter denoting significance is shown in the category with the larger column proportion. The letter denotes the category with the smaller column proportion from which it is statistically different. The values for these differences between subgroups are organized by characteristic in the dropdown menu of the "Statistical Significance" tab. Ratings that have no upper-case letter denotation in their column and that are also not referred to in any other column were not statistically different from each other.

Statistical Significance Thresholds

Below you may select a demographic to find the thresholds for statistically significant differences between groups (i.e. the minimum difference between groups to be considered statistically significant based on the sample sizes). Use the drop down menu to the right to select demographic dimensions. If there were no responses within a specific demographic option, that option will not appear in the dashboard.

Sex

	Man	Woman
Man		7%
Woman	7%

Comparison of Responses by Respondent Characteristics (Sex)

The comparison tables contain the cross tabulations of selected survey questions by respondent characteristics. Responses have been summarized to show only the proportion of respondents giving a positive answer; for example, the percent of respondents who rated the quality of life as excellent or good. For each pair of subgroups that has a statistically significant difference, an upper-case letter denoting significance is shown in the category with the larger column proportion. The letter denotes the category with the smaller column proportion from which it is statistically different. The values for these differences between subgroups are organized by characteristic in the dropdown menu of the "Statistical Significance" tab. Ratings that have no upper-case letter denotation in their column and that are also not referred to in any other column were not statistically different from each other.

Statistical Significance Thresholds

Below you may select a demographic to find the thresholds for statistically significant differences between groups (i.e. the minimum difference between groups to be considered statistically significant based on the sample sizes). Use the drop down menu to the right to select demographic dimensions. If there were no responses within a specific demographic option, that option will not appear in the dashboard.

Race & Hispanic origin

	Not white alone	White alone
Not white alone		7%
White alone	7%

Comparison of Responses by Respondent Characteristics (Race/Ethnicity)

The comparison tables contain the cross tabulations of selected survey questions by respondent characteristics. Responses have been summarized to show only the proportion of respondents giving a positive answer; for example, the percent of respondents who rated the quality of life as excellent or good. For each pair of subgroups that has a statistically significant difference, an upper-case letter denoting significance is shown in the category with the larger column proportion. The letter denotes the category with the smaller column proportion from which it is statistically different. The values for these differences between subgroups are organized by characteristic in the dropdown menu of the "Statistical Significance" tab. Ratings that have no upper-case letter denotation in their column and that are also not referred to in any other column were not statistically different from each other.

Comparison of Responses by Respondent Characteristics (Housing type)

The comparison tables contain the cross tabulations of selected survey questions by respondent characteristics. Responses have been summarized to show only the proportion of respondents giving a positive answer; for example, the percent of respondents who rated the quality of life as excellent or good. For each pair of subgroups that has a statistically significant difference, an upper-case letter denoting significance is shown in the category with the larger column proportion. The letter denotes the category with the smaller column proportion from which it is statistically different. The values for these differences between subgroups are organized by characteristic in the dropdown menu of the "Statistical Significance" tab. Ratings that have no upper-case letter denotation in their column and that are also not referred to in any other column were not statistically different from each other.

Statistical Significance Thresholds

Below you may select a demographic to find the thresholds for statistically significant differences between groups (i.e. the minimum difference between groups to be considered statistically significant based on the sample sizes). Use the drop down menu to the right to select demographic dimensions. If there were no responses within a specific demographic option, that option will not appear in the dashboard.

Presence of children

	No	Yes
No		8%
Yes	8%

Comparison of Responses by Respondent Characteristics (Presence of children)

The comparison tables contain the cross tabulations of selected survey questions by respondent characteristics. Responses have been summarized to show only the proportion of respondents giving a positive answer; for example, the percent of respondents who rated the quality of life as excellent or good. For each pair of subgroups that has a statistically significant difference, an upper-case letter denoting significance is shown in the category with the larger column proportion. The letter denotes the category with the smaller column proportion from which it is statistically different. The values for these differences between subgroups are organized by characteristic in the dropdown menu of the "Statistical Significance" tab. Ratings that have no upper-case letter denotation in their column and that are also not referred to in any other column were not statistically different from each other.

Statistical Significance Thresholds

Below you may select a demographic to find the thresholds for statistically significant differences between groups (i.e. the minimum difference between groups to be considered statistically significant based on the sample sizes). Use the drop down menu to the right to select demographic dimensions. If there were no responses within a specific demographic option, that option will not appear in the dashboard.

Comparison of Responses by Respondent Characteristics (Presence of older adults)

The comparison tables contain the cross tabulations of selected survey questions by respondent characteristics. Responses have been summarized to show only the proportion of respondents giving a positive answer; for example, the percent of respondents who rated the quality of life as excellent or good. For each pair of subgroups that has a statistically significant difference, an upper-case letter denoting significance is shown in the category with the larger column proportion. The letter denotes the category with the smaller column proportion from which it is statistically different. The values for these differences between subgroups are organized by characteristic in the dropdown menu of the "Statistical Significance" tab. Ratings that have no upper-case letter denotation in their column and that are also not referred to in any other column were not statistically different from each other.

Statistical Significance Thresholds

Below you may select a demographic to find the thresholds for statistically significant differences between groups (i.e. the minimum difference between groups to be considered statistically significant based on the sample sizes). Use the drop down menu to the right to select demographic dimensions. If there were no responses within a specific demographic option, that option will not appear in the dashboard.

$200,000 or more	12%	12%	12%

Comparison of Responses by Respondent Characteristics (Income)

The comparison tables contain the cross tabulations of selected survey questions by respondent characteristics. Responses have been summarized to show only the proportion of respondents giving a positive answer; for example, the percent of respondents who rated the quality of life as excellent or good. For each pair of subgroups that has a statistically significant difference, an upper-case letter denoting significance is shown in the category with the larger column proportion. The letter denotes the category with the smaller column proportion from which it is statistically different. The values for these differences between subgroups are organized by characteristic in the dropdown menu of the "Statistical Significance" tab. Ratings that have no upper-case letter denotation in their column and that are also not referred to in any other column were not statistically different from each other.

Methods (open participation)

As part of its participation in The National Community Survey™ (The NCS™), the City of Sacramento conducted a survey of 790 residents. Survey invitations were mailed to randomly selected households and data were collected from October 5, 2023 to November 30, 2023. The results from this main survey effort represent the most robust estimate of your residents’ opinions.

After the above data collection period was underway, a link to an online open participation survey was publicized by the City of Sacramento. The open participation survey was identical to the probability sample survey with two small updates; it included a map at the beginning asking where the respondent lives and also a question about where they heard about the survey. The open participation survey was open to all city residents and became available on November 2, 2023. The survey remained open for four weeks and there were 1,093 responses.

The open participation survey data were not collected through a random sample and it is unknown who in the community was aware of the survey; therefore, a level of confidence in the representativeness of the sample cannot be estimated. However, to reduce bias where possible, these data were statistically weighted to match the demographic characteristics of the 2020 Census and 2022 American Community Survey estimates for adults in the City of Sacramento. The characteristics used for weighting were age, sex, race, Hispanic origin, housing type, housing tenure, and district. No adjustments were made for design effects. Weights were calculated using an iterative, multiplicative raking model known as the ANES Weighting Algorithm.<sup>19</sup> The results of the weighting scheme for the open participation survey are presented in the following table.

Open Participation Survey Results

This dashboard contains a complete set of responses to each question on the open participation survey. By default, "don't know" responses are excluded. In some tables, the percentages may not sum to 100%; this is either because the question permitted the respondent to "choose all that apply", or for a question that asked the respondent to select one answer, it is due to the customary practice of rounding values to the nearest whole number. Listed below the percentage for each rating is the number of respondents that selected the respective answer choice.
