The overall quality of life in Sacramento...

Additional information about the 2021 Community Survey:

Survey Methodology

A total of 5,500 household were selected to receive the survey; 2% of the surveys were returned. The survey had an overall response rate of 15%

Margin of Error

The survey had a 95% confidence interval and a margin of error that is no greater than plus or minus four percentage points for all respondents.

Ten Facets of a Community

Questions were asked about: Economy; Mobility; Community Design; Utilities; Safety; Natural Environment; Parks and Recreation; Health and Wellness; Education, Arts, and Culture; and Inclusivity and Engagement.

Benchmarks

The survey compares survey results with a national benchmark of cities or counties and a custom benchmark of cities or counties with a population between 400,000 and 5 million.

Custom Questions

Custom questions for this year's survey included questions regarding the Measure U tax and its use to fund various City programs and services.

Opt-In Survey

The open participation survey was open to all City residents and resulted in 2,172 responses.

About The NCS™

The National Community Survey™ (The NCS™) report is about the “livability” of Sacramento. A livable community is a place that is not simply habitable, but that is desirable. It is not only where people do live, but where they want to live. The survey was developed by the experts at Polco’s National Research Center.

Great communities are partnerships of the government, private sector, community-based organizations and residents, all geographically connected. The NCS captures residents’ opinions considering ten central facets of a community:

- Economy
- Mobility
- Community Design
- Utilities
- Safety
- Natural Environment
- Parks and Recreation
- Health and Wellness
- Education, Arts, and Culture
- Inclusivity and Engagement

The report provides the opinions of a representative sample of 785 residents of the City of Sacramento collected from March 4, 2021 to April 22, 2021. The margin of error around any reported percentage is 4% for all respondents and the response rate for the 2021 survey was 15%. Survey results were weighted so that the demographic profile of respondents was representative of the demographic profile of adults in Sacramento.

How the results are reported

For the most part, the percentages presented in the following sections represent the “percent positive.” Most commonly, the percent positive is the combination of the top two most positive response options (i.e., excellent/good, very safe/somewhat safe, etc.). On many of the questions in the survey respondents may answer “don’t know.” The proportion of respondents giving this reply is shown in the full set of responses included in the “Complete data” section. However, these responses have been removed from the analyses presented in the majority of this report. In other words, the tables and graphs display the responses from respondents who had an opinion about a specific item.

Comparisons to benchmarks

NRC’s national database of comparative resident opinion is comprised of resident perspectives gathered in surveys from over 600 communities whose residents evaluated the same kinds of topics on The National Community Survey. The comparison evaluations are from the most recent survey completed in each community in the last five years. NRC adds the latest results quickly upon survey completion, keeping the benchmark data fresh and relevant. The communities in the national database represent a wide geographic and population range. However, Sacramento’s custom benchmarks focus on 25 communities with populations between 500,000 and 4 million residents. These custom benchmark comparisons are included in each section throughout the report, to show Sacramento’s results in relation to other similarly sized communities across the country.

In each section of the report, Sacramento’s results are noted as being “higher” than the benchmark, “lower” than the benchmark, or “similar” to the benchmark, meaning that the average rating given by Sacramento residents is statistically similar to or different (greater or lesser) than the benchmark. Being rated as “higher” or “lower” than the benchmark means that Sacramento’s average rating for a particular item was more than 10 points different than the benchmark. If a rating was “much higher” or “much lower,” then Sacramento’s average rating was more than 20 points different when compared to the benchmark.

The survey was administered during the COVID-19 pandemic, a time of challenge for many local governments. While we provide comparisons to national and custom benchmarks, it is important to note that much of the benchmark data was collected prior to the pandemic. This may impact how your City’s 2021 ratings compare to other communities’ ratings from the past five years.

Trends over time

Trend data for Sacramento represent important comparison data and should be examined for improvements or declines*. Deviations from stable trends over time represent opportunities for understanding how local policies, programs, or public information may have affected residents' opinions. Changes between survey years have been noted with an arrow and the percent difference. If the difference is greater than five percentage points between the 2019 and 2021 surveys, the change is statistically significant.

* In 2020, The NCS survey was updated to include new and refreshed items. Consequently, some of the trends may be impacted due to wording modifications that could have potentially altered the meaning of the item for the respondent.

Methods

Selecting survey recipients

All households within the City of Sacramento were eligible to participate in the survey. A list of all households within the zip codes serving Sacramento was purchased from Go-Dog Direct based on updated listings from the United States Postal Service. Since some of the zip codes that serve the City of Sacramento households may also serve addresses that lie outside of the community, the exact geographic location of each housing unit was compared to community boundaries using the most current municipal boundary file. Addresses located outside of the City of Sacramento boundaries were removed from the list of potential households to survey. Each address identified as being within city boundaries was further identified as being within one of the eight districts. From that list, addresses were randomly selected as survey recipients, with multi-family housing units (defined as those with a unit number) sampled at a rate of 5:3 compared to single family housing units.

An individual within each household was selected using the birthday method. The birthday method selects a person within the household by asking the “person whose birthday has most recently passed” to complete the questionnaire. The underlying assumption in this method is that day of birth has no relationship to the way people respond to surveys. This instruction was contained in the introduction of the survey.

Conducting the survey

The 5,500 randomly selected households received mailings beginning on March 4, 2021 and the survey remained open for seven weeks. The first mailing was a postcard inviting the household to participate in the survey. The next mailing contained a cover letter with instructions, the survey questionnaire, and a postage-paid return envelope. The final mailing contained a reminder letter, another survey, and a postage-paid return envelope. All mailings included a web link to give residents the opportunity to respond to the survey online. All follow-up mailings asked those who had not completed the survey to do so and those who had already done so to refrain from completing the survey again.

About 2% of the 5,500 mailed invitations or surveys were returned because the household address was vacant or the postal service was unable to deliver the survey as addressed. Of the remaining 5,404 households that received the invitations to participate, 785 completed the survey, providing an overall response rate of 15%. The response rate was calculated using AAPOR’s response rate #2* for mailed surveys of unnamed persons.

It is customary to describe the precision of estimates made from surveys by a “level of confidence” and accompanying “confidence interval” (or margin of error). A traditional level of confidence, and the one used here, is 95%. The 95% confidence interval can be any size and quantifies the sampling error or imprecision of the survey results because some residents’ opinions are relied on to estimate all residents’ opinions. The margin of error for the City of Sacramento survey is no greater than plus or minus four percentage points around any given percent reported for all respondents (785 completed surveys).

In addition to the randomly selected “probability sample” of households, a link to an online open participation survey was publicized by the City of Sacramento. The open participation survey was identical to the probability sample survey with two small updates; it included a map at the beginning asking where the respondent lives and a question about where they heard about the survey. The open participation survey was open to all city residents and became available on April 8, 2021. The survey remained open for two weeks. The data presented in the following pages exclude the open participation survey data, but a section at the end provides the complete frequency of responses to questions by the open participation respondents.

Analyzing the data

Responses from mailed surveys were entered into an electronic dataset using a “key and verify” method, where all responses are entered twice and compared to each other. Any discrepancies were resolved in comparison to the original survey form. Range checks as well as other forms of quality control were also performed. Responses from the randomly sampled residents that completed the surveys online on the Polco platform were downloaded and merged with the mailed survey responses.

The demographics of the survey respondents were compared to those found in the 2010 Census and 2017 American Community Survey estimates for adults in the City of Sacramento. The primary objective of weighting survey data is to make the survey respondents reflective of the larger population of the community. The characteristics used for weighting were age, sex, race, Hispanic origin, housing type, housing tenure, and area. No adjustments were made for design effects. Weights were calculated using an iterative, multiplicative raking model known as the ANES Weighting Algorithm.* The results of the weighting scheme for the probability sample are presented in the following table.

NRC aligns demographic labels with those used by the U.S. Census for reporting purposes, when possible. Some categories (e.g., age, race/Hispanic origin, housing type, and length of residency) are combined into smaller subgroups.

The survey datasets were analyzed using all or some of a combination of the Statistical Package for the Social Sciences (SPSS), R, Python and Tableau. For the most part, the percentages presented in the reports represent the “percent positive.” The percent positive is the combination of the top two most positive response options (i.e., excellent/good, very safe/somewhat safe, essential/very important, etc.), or, in the case of resident behaviors/participation, the percent positive represents the proportion of respondents indicating “yes” or participating in an activity at least once a month.

On many of the questions in the survey respondents may answer “don’t know.” The proportion of respondents giving this reply is shown in the full set of responses included in the “Complete data” section. However, these responses have been removed from the analyses presented in the reports. In other words, the tables and graphs display the responses from respondents who had an opinion about a specific item.

Highlights

Economy is a focus area for the City.

An analysis of quality and importance ratings revealed that the economy is a community facet which is rated by residents as relatively lower in quality and higher in importance than other facets, suggesting this as a potential area of focus. About 7 in 10 survey respondents gave excellent or good ratings to Sacramento as a place to work, and two-thirds gave positive ratings to the overall quality of business and service establishments in the city. Roughly half gave favorable marks to the vibrancy of the downtown/commercial area and employment opportunities, and about 4 in 10 positively rated the overall economic health of Sacramento and economic development in the city. These ratings were all similar to the custom benchmark (other communities with populations between 500,000 and 4 million). However, ratings for Sacramento's shopping opportunities (58% excellent or good) and the city as a place to visit (47%) were lower than those of comparable communities. Most economy-related ratings remained stable from 2019 to 2021 with the exception of overall quality of business and service establishments, which increased in 2021, and vibrancy of downtown/commercial area and shopping opportunities, which decreased.

Safety is another area of resident concern.

Residents also identified the facet of safety as relatively higher in importance and lower in quality than other facets of community livability. Eight in 10 Sacramento residents reported feeling safe in their neighborhood during the day, while 6 in 10 felt safe in the downtown/commercial area during the day. Half felt safe from property crime or from violent crime. When evaluating safety-related services, about 7 in 10 respondents or more gave positive ratings to fire and ambulance/EMS services, 6 in 10 were pleased with fire prevention and education (an increase since 2019) and about half of residents or less gave favorable marks to animal control. All of these ratings were similar to those given in other similarly sized communities. About 4 in 10 positively rated the city's emergency preparedness, police services, and the overall feeling of safety in Sacramento. All of these were lower than average ratings from comparable communities, and the rating for police services declined since the city's previous survey administration.

In a survey question unique to Sacramento, roughly 9 in 10 residents indicated their strong support for funding several safety-related services with Measure U funds, including community-based mental health and wellness (including crisis response workers, addiction services, etc.), community neighborhood response (including 911, restorative justice, re-entry services, etc.), and Fire and 911 essential services. Only about two-thirds of residents supported using Measure U funds for Police essential services.

Some community ratings have changed over time, possibly due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

In the facet of utilities, about 7 in 10 survey respondents gave positive marks to garbage collection and to sewer services; two-thirds were pleased with drinking water and 6 in 10 gave high scores to storm water management. These ratings were similar to the custom and national benchmarks; in addition, drinking water, sewer services, and storm water management ratings all improved from 2019 to 2021.

However, ratings for some aspects of community engagement and participation have declined since the previous survey iteration, likely due to closures associated with the COVID-19 pandemic. Residents in 2021 gave lower ratings than in 2019 to opportunities to participate in social events and activities, opportunities to volunteer, and opportunities to participate in community matters. They were also less likely in 2021 to have volunteered or to have campaigned for an issue, cause, or candidate.

Facets of livability

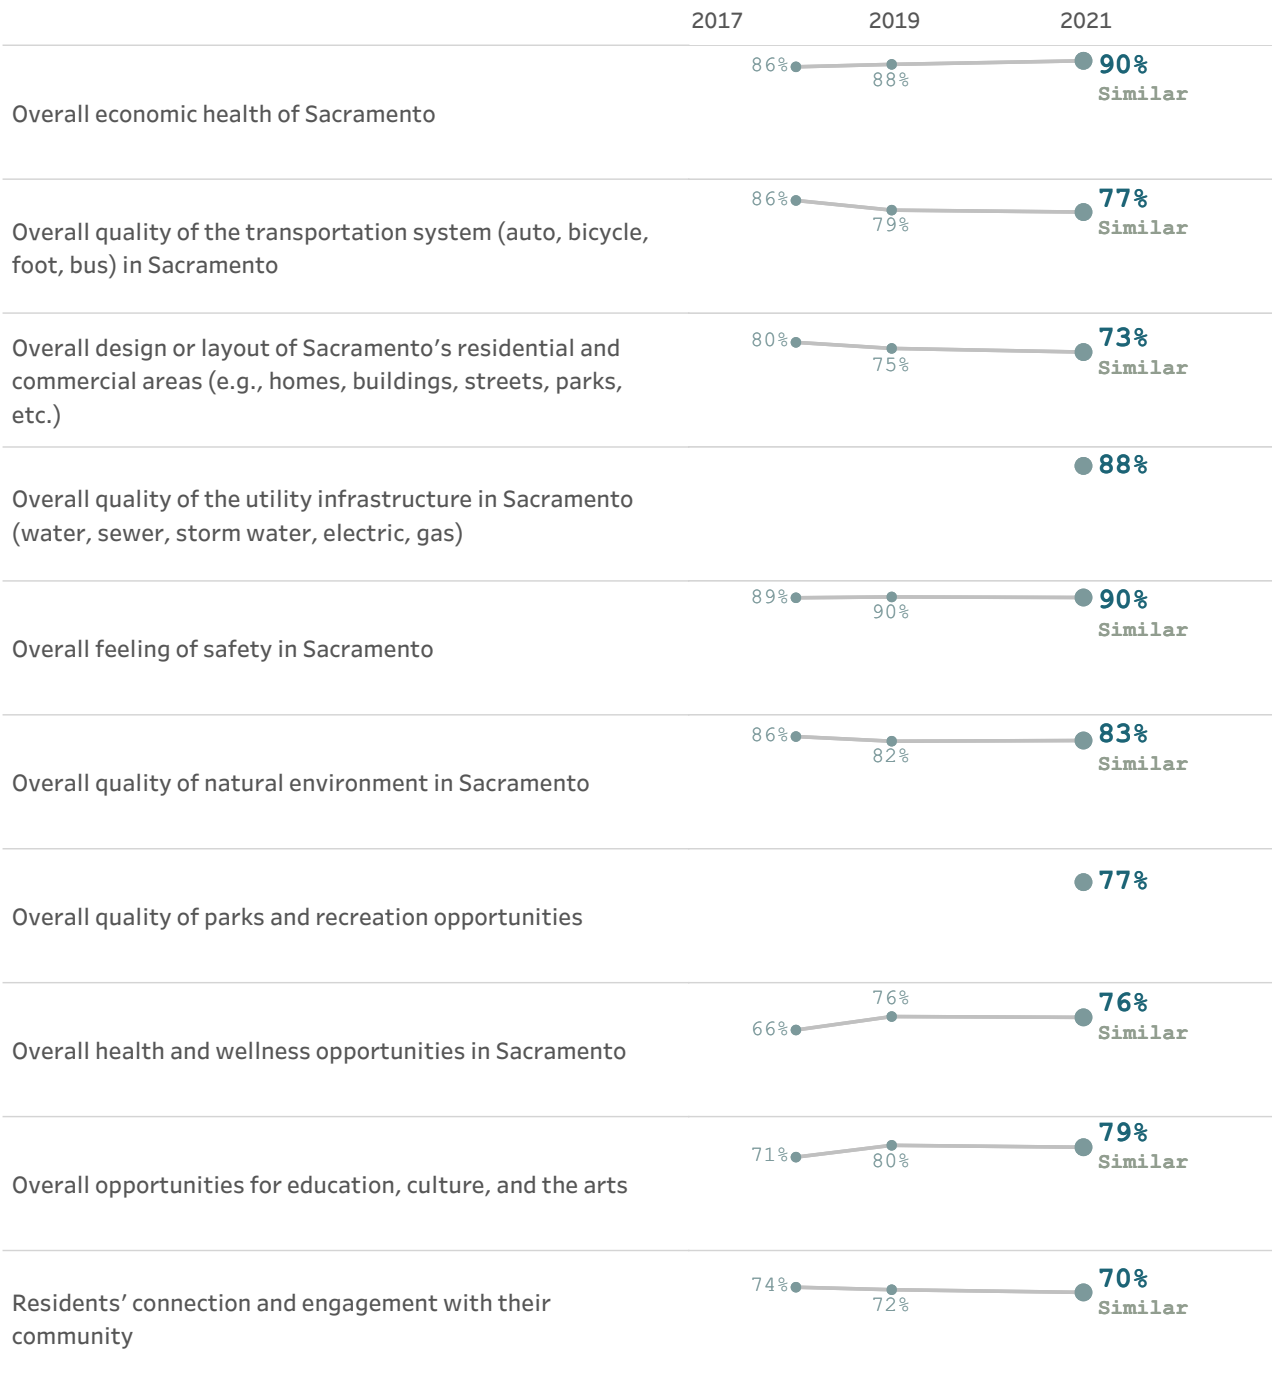

Resident perceptions of quality and importance for each of the facets of community livability provide an overview of community strengths and challenges that are useful for planning, budgeting and performance evaluation.

The charts below show the proportion of residents who rated the community facets positively for quality and the priority (importance) placed on each. Also displayed is whether local ratings were lower, similar, or higher than comparable communities across the country (the custom benchmark).

Please rate each of the following characteristics as they relate to Sacramento as a whole.

Balancing performance and importance

Every jurisdiction must balance limited resources while meeting resident needs and striving to optimize community livability. To this end, it is helpful to know what aspects of the community are most important to residents and which they perceive as being of higher or lower quality. It is especially helpful to know when a facet of livability is considered of high importance but rated as lower quality, as this should be a top priority to address.

To help guide City staff and officials with decisions on future resource allocation, resident ratings of the importance of services were compared to their ratings of the quality of these services. To identify the services perceived by residents to have relatively lower quality at the same time as relatively higher importance, all services were ranked from highest perceived quality to lowest perceived quality and from highest perceived importance to lowest perceived importance. Some services were in the top half of both lists (higher quality and higher importance); some were in the top half of one list but the bottom half of the other (higher quality and lower importance or lower quality and higher importance); and some services were in the bottom half of both lists.

Services receiving quality ratings of excellent or good by 52% or more of respondents were considered of “higher quality” and those with ratings lower than 52% were considered to be of “lower quality.” Services were classified as “more important” if they were rated as essential or very important by 78% or more of respondents. Services were rated as “less important” if they received a rating of less than 78%. This classification uses the median ratings for quality and importance to divide the services in half.

The quadrants in the figure below show which community facets were given higher or lower importance ratings (up-down) and which had higher or lower quality ratings (right-left). Services categorized as higher in importance and lower in quality may warrant further investigation to see if changes to their delivery are necessary.

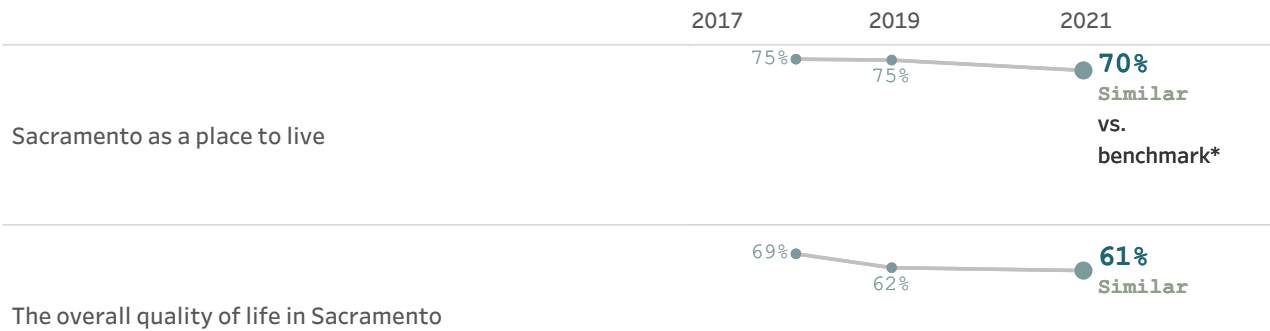

Quality of life

Measuring community livability starts with assessing the quality of life of those who live there, and ensuring that the community is attractive, accessible, and welcoming to all.

Custom questions

Below are the complete set of responses to each custom question on the survey. By default, “don’t know” responses are excluded.

National benchmark tables

The first column in this table shows the comparison of Sacramento’s rating to the national benchmark communities. Being rated as “higher” or “lower” than the benchmark means that Sacramento’s average rating for a particular item was more than 10 points different than the benchmark. If a rating was “much higher” or “much lower,” then Sacramento’s average rating was more than 20 points different when compared to the benchmark. The second column is Sacramento’s “percent positive.” Most commonly, the percent positive is the combination of the top two most positive response options (i.e., excellent/good). The third column is the rank assigned to Sacramento’s rating among communities where a similar question was asked. The fourth column is the number of communities that asked a similar question. The fifth column shows the percentile for Sacramento’s result -- that is what percent of surveyed communities had a lower rating than Sacramento.

Custom benchmark tables

The first column of this table shows the comparison of Sacramento’s rating to the custom benchmark, which include only communities with populations between 400,000 and 5 million. Being rated as “higher” or “lower” than the benchmark means that Sacramento’s average rating for a particular item was more than 10 points different than the benchmark. If a rating was “much higher” or “much lower,” then Sacramento’s average rating was more than 20 points different. “Null” indicates that there were not enough communities in the comparison to be able to provide a benchmark for that item. The second column is Sacramento’s “percent positive.” Most commonly, the percent positive is the combination of the top two most positive response options (i.e., excellent/good). The third column is the rank assigned to Sacramento’s rating among communities where a similar question was asked. The fourth column is the number of communities that asked a similar question. The fifth column shows the percentile for Sacramento’s result -- that is what percent of surveyed communities had a lower rating than Sacramento.

Complete set of frequencies

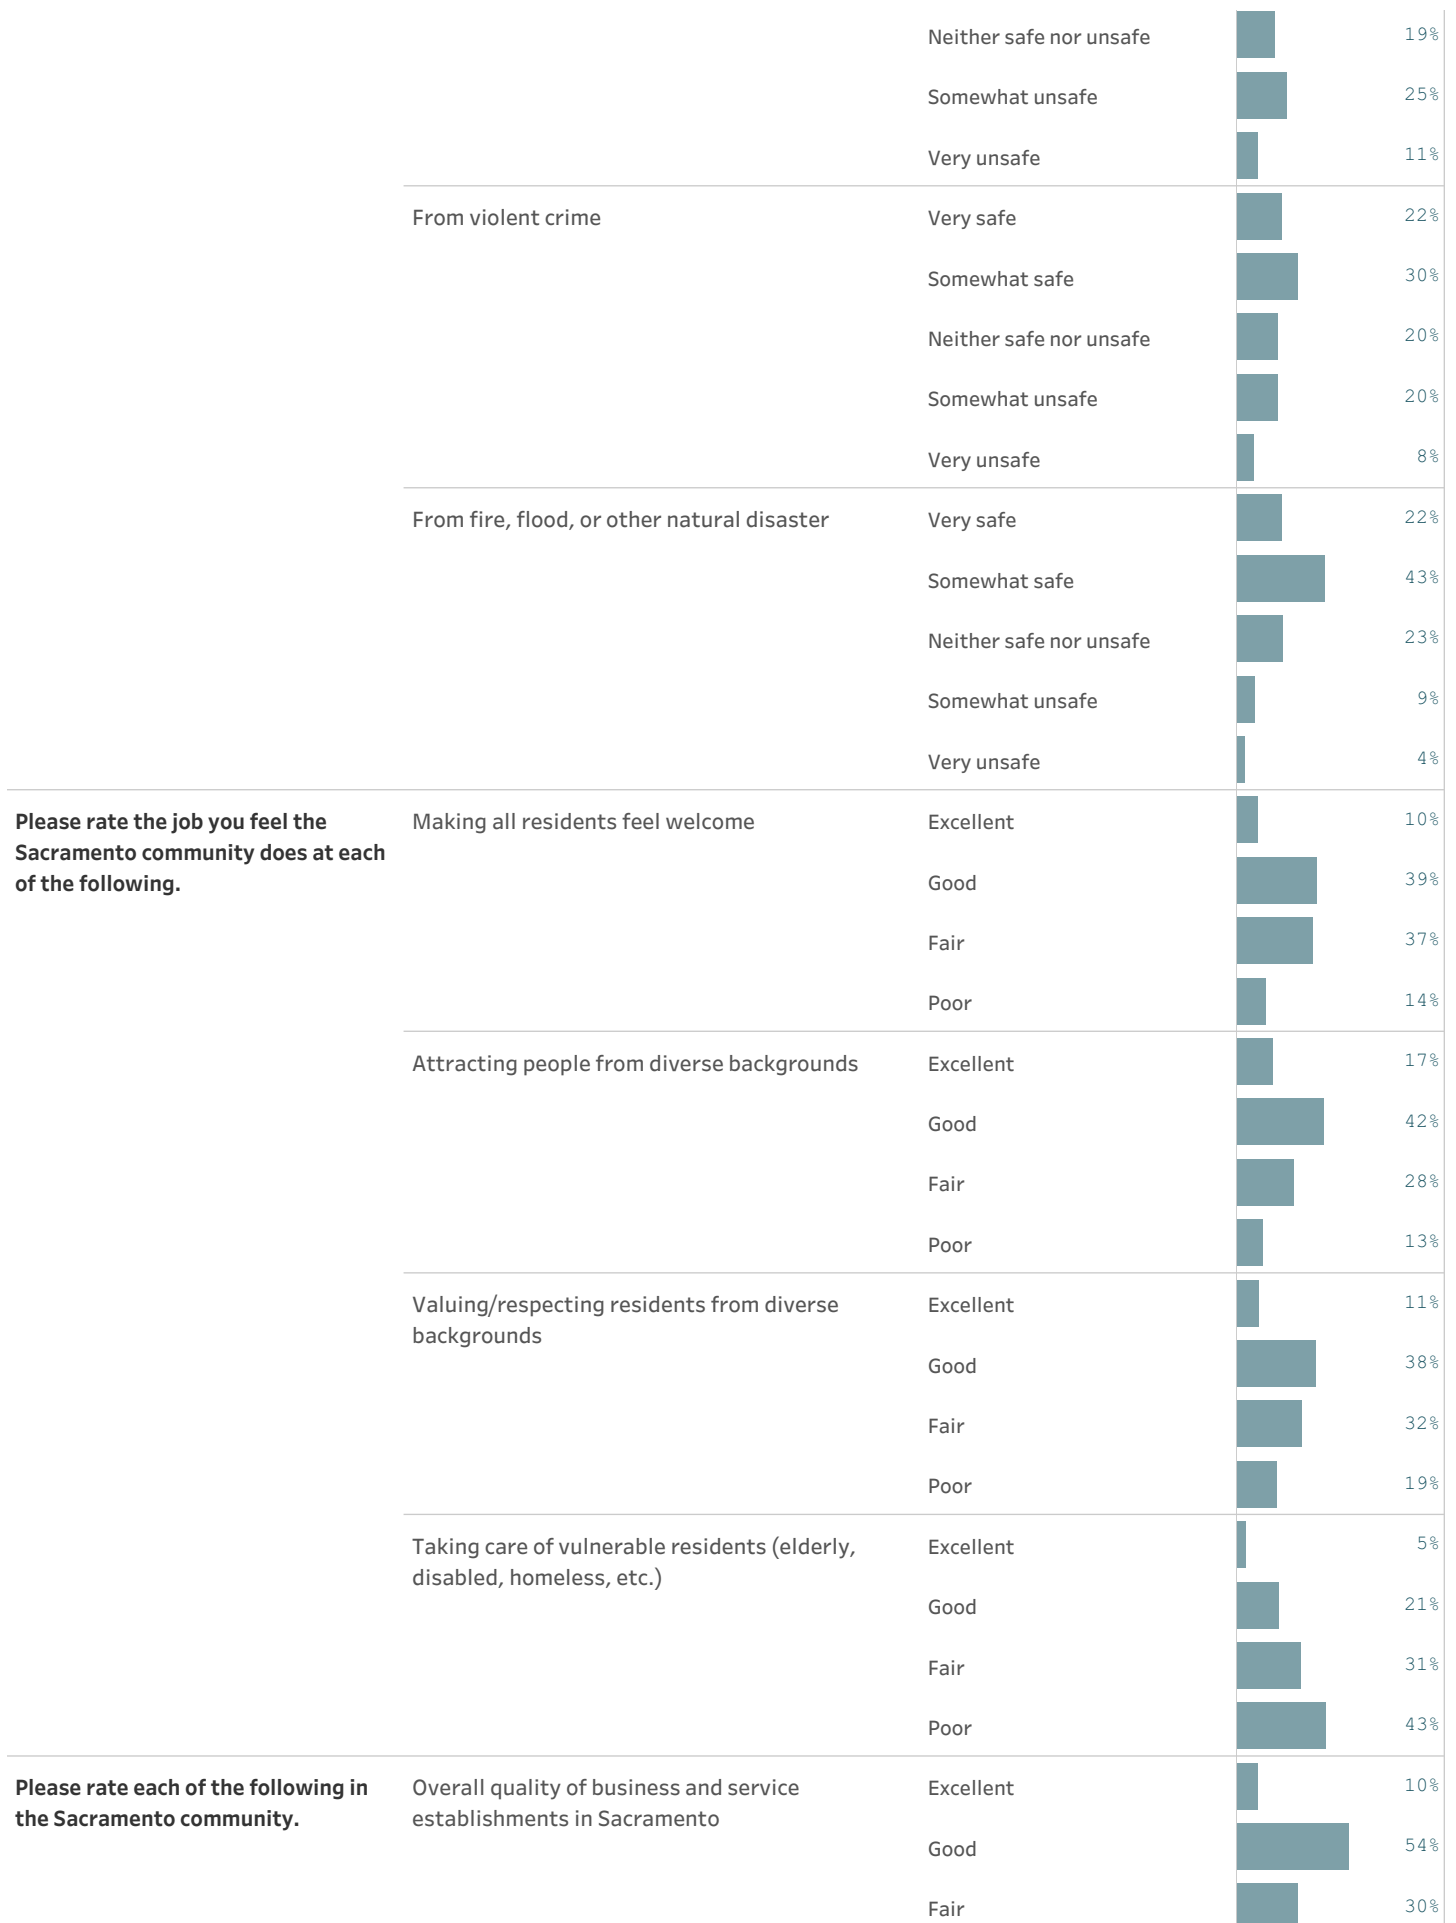

This section contains a complete set of responses to each question on the survey. By default, "Don't know" responses are excluded. When a table for a question that only permitted a single response does not total to exactly 100%, it is due to the common practice of percentages being rounded to the nearest whole number.

Statistical significance thresholds

Below you may select a demographic to find the thresholds for statistically significant differences between groups (i.e. the minimum difference between groups to be considered statistically significant based on the sample sizes). If there were no responses within a specific demographic option, that option will not appear in the dashboard.

Comparison of Responses by Respondent Characteristics

This section allows the user to specify which demographics to include in the table. Responses have been summarized to show only the proportion of respondents giving a positive answer; for example, the percent of respondents who rated the quality of life as excellent or good.

In the "Statistical significance" page, you will find a tool to help determine the threshold values for statistically significant differences between groups.

Comparison of Responses by Respondent Characteristics

This section allows the user to specify which demographics to include in the table. Responses have been summarized to show only the proportion of respondents giving a positive answer; for example, the percent of respondents who rated the quality of life as excellent or good.

In the "Statistical significance" page, you will find a tool to help determine the threshold values for statistically significant differences between groups.

Comparison of Responses by Respondent Characteristics

This section allows the user to specify which demographics to include in the table. Responses have been summarized to show only the proportion of respondents giving a positive answer; for example, the percent of respondents who rated the quality of life as excellent or good.

In the "Statistical significance" page, you will find a tool to help determine the threshold values for statistically significant differences between groups.

Full trends

This table contains the trends over time for the City of Sacramento. The combined “percent positive” responses for each survey year are presented (e.g., excellent/good or yes). If an item was not included during an administration of the survey, no percentage will be shown in the table. If the difference between the 2019 and 2021 surveys is greater than five percentage points, the change is statistically significant.

It is important to note that in 2020, The NCS survey was updated to include new and refreshed items. Consequently, some of the trends may be impacted due to wording modifications that could have potentially altered the meaning of the item for the respondent.

Methods (open participation)

As part of its participation in The National Community Survey™ (The NCST™), the City of Sacramento conducted a survey of 5,500 residents. Survey invitations were mailed to randomly selected households and data were collected from March 4, 2021 to April 22, 2021. The results from this main survey effort represent the most robust estimate of your residents’ opinions.

After the above data collection period was underway, a link to an online open participation survey was publicized by the City of Sacramento. The open participation survey was identical to the probability sample survey with two small updates; it included a map at the beginning asking where the respondent lives and also a question about where they heard about the survey. The open participation survey was open to all city residents and became available on April 8, 2021. The survey remained open for two weeks and there were 2,172 responses.

The open participation survey data were not collected through a random sample and it is unknown who in the community was aware of the survey; therefore, a level of confidence in the representativeness of the sample cannot be estimated. However, to reduce bias where possible, these data were statistically weighted to match the demographic characteristics of the 2010 Census and 2017 American Community Survey estimates for adults in the City of Sacramento. The characteristics used for weighting were age, sex, race, Hispanic origin, housing type, housing tenure, and area. No adjustments were made for design effects. Weights were calculated using an iterative, multiplicative raking model known as the ANES Weighting Algorithm.* The results of the weighting scheme for the probability sample are presented in the following table.]

Open participation survey results

This section contains a complete set of responses to each question on the open participation survey. By default, "don't know" responses are excluded. When a table for a question that only permitted a single response does not total to exactly 100%, it is due to the common practice of percentages being rounded to the nearest whole number.
