Detailed Community Engagement Summary

A.1. Summary of Engagement Activities

Collaboration and engagement began early in the planning process and will continue through plan adoption. Engagement activities have prioritized outreach in identified underserved communities, while also including all the elements to ensure broad public participation in the planning process. This section summarizes outreach activities to date and includes pertinent outreach materials and summaries.

Resident Planning Team Meetings

In developing the engagement strategy for this plan, the Engagement Team put together a Resident Planning Team (RPT) to act as consultants and collaborators to help build and inform the development of the Stockton Blvd Plan. The RPT consists of residents from the surrounding neighborhoods in the Neighborhood Study Area who will lead their community and help carry this plan to adoption and through implementation. Meetings began in the Fall of 2020 and have occurred on a mostly monthly basis through 2021, for a total of 11 meetings and five working group meetings. More meetings are planned for 2022. Each RPT member was offered a stipend to cover time and expenses for participation in the process. Figure A-1 shows a screenshot of the October 2021 virtual RPT meeting.

ROLE OF THE RPT

- Operate as the collaborative consulting team of community residents of Stockton Blvd to build and inform the development of the Stockton Blvd Plan.
- Commit to attending all scheduled RPT meetings and/or working with the rest of the RPT to make arrangements for unforeseen absences.
- Participate in discussions about how we support and connect with residents along the corridor.
- Inform discussions about how we share and receive information with residents along the corridor.

RPT PURPOSE STATEMENT

We are looking to do something different. The RPT will be composed of community residents from the surrounding neighborhoods along Stockton Blvd from Alhambra to Florin. The RPT will help identify underserved, marginalized, and multilingual communities along the corridor for us to prioritize and collaborate with as we begin to shape plans for Stockton Blvd. Our aim is to strengthen the corridor for the residents and businesses who currently live and operate there. We will be developing strategies to increase local ownership of housing, land, businesses, and investments, as well as exploring anti-displacement measures to allow our communities to enjoy these improvements as they come.

The Engagement Team also coordinated community engagement events with the RPT to ensure engagement activities were planned and implemented in a way that was most effective and culturally appropriate, with a goal of reaching traditionally underrepresented groups. The RPT played a large role in the first Community Workshop. Figures A-2 and A-3 show the results of the visioning and favorite memories and places exercises done with the RPT in advance of the first Community Workshop.

Working Group Meetings

The RPT met with City staff and the Engagement Team for a series of working group meetings in April and May of 2021 on the following topics: Environment and Public Health; Placemaking, Arts and Culture; Inclusive Economic Development; Housing and Anti-Displacement; and Mobility and Transportation.

The working group meetings were held to collectively learn more about a topic, share resources and initiatives, and begin thinking through strategies and actions for the plan. These topics would become the main areas of focus for the Neighborhood Action Plan.

Recap of Working Group Meetings

- 1. Environment & Public Health (April 22nd) We had an open dialogue about community-owned grocery stores, food deserts, the City's Climate Action and Adaptation Plan (CAAP), funding from public health institutions, community gardens, and much more.
- 2. Placemaking, Arts, & Culture (May 3rd) We had a great discussion about the cultural landmarks of Stockton Boulevard, local storytelling, night markets, projects for local artists, and community events and festivals.
- 3. Inclusive Economic Development (April 27th) We had a diverse range of topics brought forth that included: wealth-building strategies, increasing Wi-Fi access, utilizing vacant properties, signage for Little Saigon, local hiring, language barriers, and frustration over the lack of communication from the City.
- 4. Housing & Anti-Displacement (May 6th) We had an eye-opening dialogue about community-ownership models, Accessory-Dwelling Units (ADUs), community canvassing, making community land trusts more accessible, and a Resale Inspection Program.
- 5. Mobility & Transportation (April 28th & May 6th) We recommended RPT attendance at the Transportation Prioritization meetings hosted by the City of Sacramento Transportation Department.

Stockton Blvd Plan: Connect, Reflect, Affect Community Workshop

The City hosted a virtual workshop in English on February 10, 2021, that over 100 people attended. This event, which was also streamed on Facebook Live, was designed to help inform community members about the Stockton Blvd Plan and to start gathering community input to help guide next steps in developing the plan. Figure A-4 shows screenshots of the virtual event.

The workshop, title “Connect, Reflect, Affect,” started out with an introduction from Councilmember Eric Guerra of District 6 and an overview of the plan process and the purpose of the Stockton Blvd Plan (aka “Connect”).

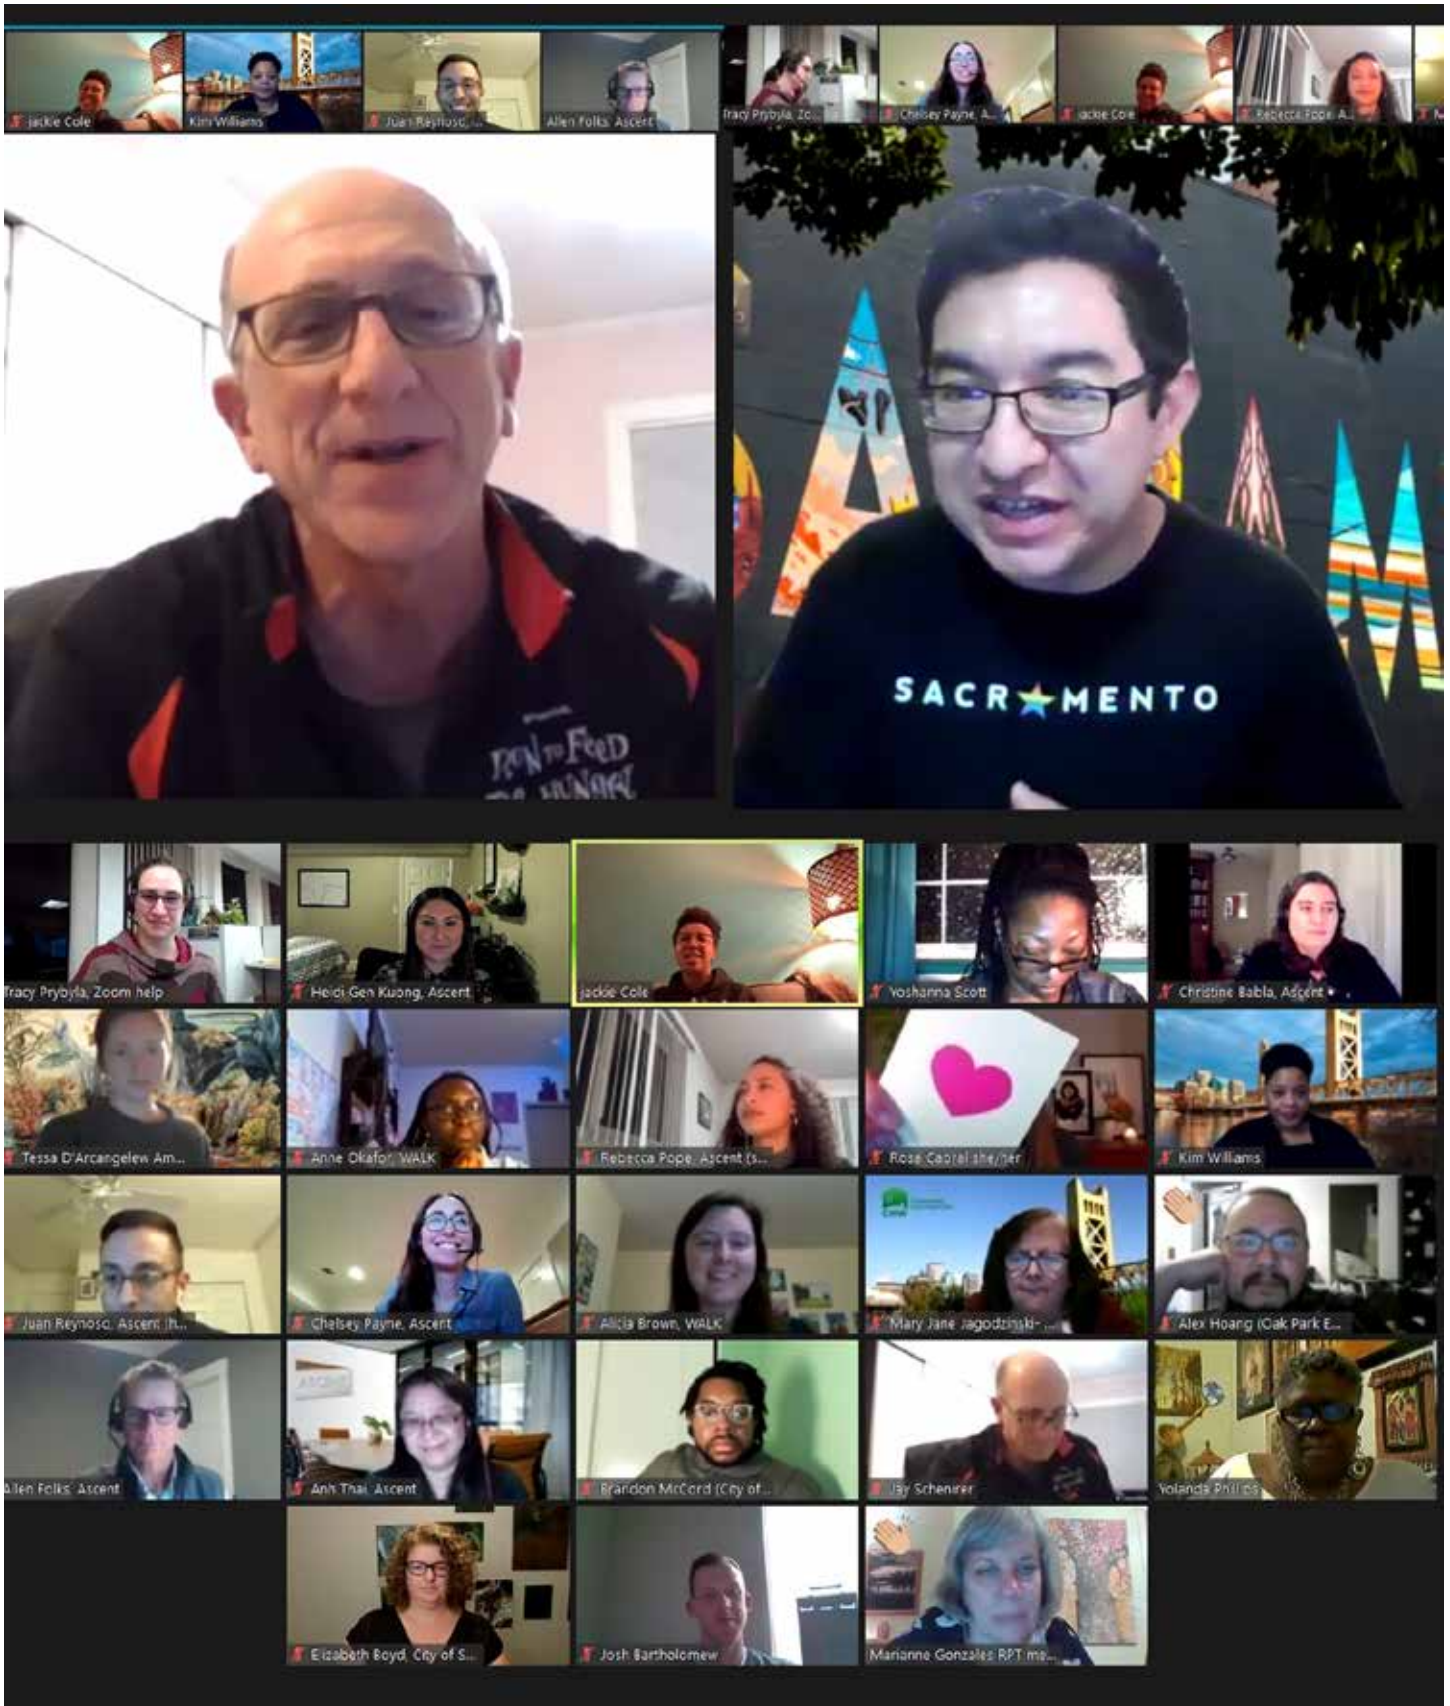

The next segment, “Reflect,” included a spoken word performance from local artist Fong Tran and a brief oral history of the Neighborhood Study Area, where three RPT members shared their personal stories and connection to the area. Attendees were then put into breakout rooms and asked to share their favorite places along the corridor and their favorite memories. Figure A-6 shows the results from the memories and favorite places breakout room exercise in a word cloud and Figure A-7 shows the responses on a map.

The third part of the workshop, “Affect,” focused on visioning and the effect the Stockton Blvd Plan could have. The RPT’s vision was shared with attendees who were then asked to share their vision for the Stockton Boulevard corridor, along with ideas for what a successful corridor would look like and the types of investments they would want to see occur. Figure A-5 shows the breakout room visioning exercise that was done on an online platform called Mural. The workshop ended with next steps, Q&As, and closing remarks and reflections from Vice Mayor Jay Schenirer of District 5.

Online Companion Survey for Community Workshop

After Community Workshop #1, an online companion survey was posted on the City’s project website to allow residents an additional opportunity to submit feedback. All questions on the companion survey were the same questions asked during the Community Workshop. The survey was posted from February to May of 2021 and had a total of 39 respondents

Community Conversations

City staff hosted two online community conversations in June and July 2021, to dig deeper into two topics: anti-displacement strategies and community ownership models. The meetings were held on Zoom and were also streamed on Facebook Live. These two meetings included local organizations working on these topics, RPT members, and interested residents and stakeholders. Summaries of both events are described below:

1. Community Conversation on Anti-Displacement Strategies (June 23, 2021). Many helpful resources were shared during the June 23 community conversation on anti-displacement strategies. The purpose of the community conversation was to:

- Create a foundation for anti-displacement solutions along Stockton Boulevard;
- Showcase what has come out of our Stockton Blvd Plan RPT discussions;
- Highlight current programs and upcoming programs that seek to mitigate displacement;
- Identify the gaps and needs of current housing and anti-displacement programs; and
- Have an open dialogue to brainstorm new strategies to prevent displacement.

2. Community Conversation on Community Ownership Models (July 1, 2021). This community conversation focused on ways to increase community ownership of land, businesses, homes, and participate in a discussion with those who are working in the field. Some of the topics discussed included:

- The community land trust model: owning land to make housing more affordable.
- Community investment model: allowing community members to make investments together and increase wealth.
- Community owned grocery store: providing more stability for food access in the community and allowing community members make decisions about the food they need.
- Resident buyouts: aiding tenants in buying the homes they currently rent.
- Rent-to-own development: providing homeownership models in a more affordable way.

Land Use and Development Meeting

City staff held an online conversation in August 2021 to address questions about the City's development process and obtain input on how the Stockton Blvd Plan could address land use or development refinements. During the meeting, City staff provided an overview of the Stockton Blvd Plan, the existing tools that regulate land use (including the Broadway-Stockton Special Planning District (SPD), and explained how the City reviews development applications. Attendees and City staff discussed types of land uses the community would like to see more of on the corridor, how the City can partner with the community to guide future development, and City staff answered questions about the development process.

Outreach Efforts on Neighborhood Action Plan Strategies

Over the course of two months in September and October 2021, the Engagement Team put together seven events to get feedback on potential strategies for the Neighborhood Action Plan. The events varied in size and scale, to try and reach a broader range of residents, particularly those who are not often heard or given access to meaningfully participate. Below is a summary of the various outreach events on strategies.

Strategy Pop-Up Events

The engagement team hosted a series of three community pop-up events in September and October 2021. The pop-up events were held in person, following standard COVID-19 safety protocols, with the intention of reaching a broader range of residents and to make it as easy and fun to participate in the process. Participants were asked through various exercises to vote on the potential strategies and actions that they would want to see implemented through the Stockton Blvd Plan. Large format boards were available for participants to use dot-voting to vote for their top three strategies per board. Below are summaries of the three events:

1. Pop-Up at the Colonial Heights Library (September 11th). Boards were placed outside the library and several representatives from the engagement team were there to facilitate. Over 30 people participated in the strategy board exercises.
2. Movie Night and Community BBQ at the Greenway Mutual Housing Apartments (September 23rd). The engagement team hosted a movie night and BBQ for residents at the Greenway Mutual Housing Apartments, where attendees were able to learn more about the Stockton Blvd Plan and participate in the strategy board exercises. Raffle prizes were also handed out to participants. Twenty-eight people attended the pop-up event.
3. Pop-Up at Lemon Hill Mutual Housing Apartments (October 21st). The engagement team hosted the final pop-up event at the Lemon Hill Mutual Housing Apartments where 21 people attended. Strategy exercises were translated and provided in Mandarin, Cantonese, and Vietnamese. Dinner was provided and raffle prizes were available for those who participated in the strategy board exercises.

Virtual Workshop/RPT Meeting on Strategies

The Engagement Team put together a virtual workshop on strategies during the September 2021 RPT meeting to provide RPT members and the public an additional opportunity to receive feedback on potential strategies for the plan. Attendees were given an overview of the project and given the same strategy exercise. Approximately 20 people attended the virtual workshop.

Multilingual Night & Harvest Festival

The engagement team hosted two events in September and October 2021 to further engage multilingual communities in the strategy development process. For both events the strategy board exercises were translated into Spanish, Mandarin, Cantonese, and Vietnamese as handouts for multilingual community members to read through and circle their top three priority strategies on each page. Spanish, Mandarin, Cantonese, Vietnamese, and Hmong interpretation were also provided. Below are summaries of the two events:

Multilingual Night at Will C. Wood Middle School (September 22nd). The engagement team hosted a multilingual night at Will C. Wood Middle School. Food and raffle prizes were provided at the event, which was attended by 13 community members.

Harvest Festival at the Fruitridge Community Collaborative (October 28th). The engagement team hosted a Harvest Festival for community members with crafts, food, raffle prizes, and a discussion about the future of Stockton Blvd. Six people attended the event at the Fruitridge Community Collaborative.

Celebrate Stockton Blvd Event (October 23)

On Saturday, October 23, 2021, the City hosted a community celebration and resource fair at the Colonial Heights Library. The celebration began with a Sacramento land acknowledgement from RPT member Marianne Gonzales, followed by welcome and opening remarks by Vice Mayor Jay Schenirer and Councilmember Eric Guerra. Fenix Drum and Dance Company performed a drumming and dance piece and there was a spoken word performance by Fong Tran. Live music was provided by local radio station 97.5 and several local restaurants were on hand to provide food and refreshments.

The resource fair had 31 different booths to visit, with one booth dedicated to the Stockton Blvd Plan. At the booth residents were encouraged to participate in the strategy board exercises. Materials were translated into Spanish, Mandarin, Cantonese, and Vietnamese.

Much more than just commitment to affordable housing. So many other pressures that community members are facing including low-incomes, health care availability, transportation, workforce development. Boils down to education on all sides. People may not know that they have access to a renter's helpline or many of the other opportunities available to them. There also needs to be some type of education around the history of the community and the resources put into the community. There needs to be a commitment that can last long-term so low-income folks can feel secure. A lot of other factors at play but we need to have conversations about all of the other dynamics. There is an immediate need. Sometimes processes can drag and we don't have 1-3 years. We need an eviction help center. Tenants don't know landlord tenant law and they don't know how to fight housing battles. Displacement and gentrification causes negative impacts on education, job opportunity and commute times, mental health opportunity. Eviction help center – need to have legal assistance. Really difficult to open up your home and share a space. What really helps is having a third party to manage that. Small scale landlords. Two things to bring up. ADUs and generally making sure that people can age in place in a housing stock that wasn't built to be accessible. City should be working with community partners to leverage dollars and resources. More education around ADUs to landlords to rent to a person with a disability. Make sure that landlords have funding available to address accessibility modifications	Anti-Displacement discussion	6/23/2021	Housing and Anti-Displacement

Community/Tenant Opportunity to Purchase Act (COPA/TOPA) – it would be great to see some legislation saying that if you're going to sell your house, then you have to sell to the person living there. (San Francisco) recently did this.	Anti-Displacement discussion	6/23/2021	Housing and Anti-Displacement
ADUs are a great option but homes that have the space/land for an ADU, the cost is skyrocketing.	Anti-Displacement discussion	6/23/2021	Housing and Anti-Displacement
Disability Rights Commissioner – once they (people with disabilities) get their home, want to make sure they can keep their home whether they own or rent. Program we are trying to set up is connecting residents with service providers. Find a way to allow the families of people who are on social security who die, to stay in their home. Resource Directory. No one really knows where all of these resources are and they are hard to find. Renters now need to pay sewer, garbage, and water and this is a barrier as far as affordable rental options. There is also an issue with racial discrimination – and no one knows where to find fair housing resources. Low income residents do not have enough help. Once residents can get help than they don't get off and this is another barrier. Tried to direct people with these instances to HUD/HCD and this has not worked; growing concern. Critical from an SHA and housing perspective. Need to understand the history of segregated housing. Problem with redlined communities is the generational turnover. Market consolidation is happening in a big way. With the eviction moratoriums almost up, the pressure may make small local businesses want to sell. Together we need to figure out what resources we can pull together. How can we think out of the box – help renters, people with disabilities, existing homeowners?
