Occupation: Senior Director of Policy, Public Health Advocates
Statement: I'm running to build a more vibrant, inclusive, and equitable Sacramento, where everyone can thrive, feel safe and have access to affordable housing and economic opportunity. As a public health expert and four-term chair of the city's Measure U committee, I'll provide collaborative leadership to bring people together and show that more is possible for Sacramento.

I'm an experienced leader with a PhD in Public Health. I strengthened statewide coalitions that expanded women's healthcare, decreased infant mortality, and improved emergency response. I've consistently advocated for bold action to protect renters, homeowners, and workers. Because of my record, I'm endorsed by unions, business owners, and community groups.

My parents were public school teachers who taught me to fight for our communities. I lost my dad at age eleven. Like many families, he was deceived by Big Tobacco. I've dedicated my life to helping families flourish by making government serve the people, not special interests or political insiders.

Our campaign is people-powered and grassroots funded. We'll always stay rooted in the community, from how we campaign to how we govern.

Sacramento needs new leadership. Let's build a city together where everyone thrives. Join our movement at www.floformayor.com.
