Candidate Statement:

For 25 years, I have run a nonprofit serving more than a thousand at-risk kids every school day. That work taught me that real change takes persistence and results come from bringing people together.

In our neighborhoods, that approach is delivering. Crime is down 19 percent. Our parks have new playgrounds, trails, and restrooms families use every day. We are redesigning streets to protect pedestrians, not just move traffic. Sacramento became the first city in California to earn a Pro-Housing designation because we chose to lead.

But the job is not finished!

Too many families are one setback away from losing their home. We need more housing that working families and seniors can actually afford, and economic development that creates good jobs in our neighborhoods. Especially in tough budget years, I'll continue to be a fierce advocate for keeping communities safe, making real progress on homelessness, and building an economy that works for everyone.

Sacramento Area Firefighters Local 522, small business owners, and labor organizations representing working families support me because they have seen my work up close. If you believe Sacramento should keep moving forward, I would be honored to earn your vote. Let's continue our work together. www.RickforSacramento.com
