

FENTA NAH

FENTANYL AWARENESS

“No Seal No Deal” Fentanyl Kills!

Unveiling the Truth About Fentanyl

FENTANYL FACTS

- Fentanyl is a synthetic opioid, 50 to 100 times more potent than morphine.
- Often used medically for pain management, but illicitly manufactured fentanyl poses a deadly threat.

Illicitly Manufactured Fentanyl

- Illegally produced fentanyl is a major contributor to the current crisis. It is often mixed with other drugs, making it difficult to detect.

Street Names for Fentanyl

Recognizing the various street names helps raise awareness.

- Apahe
- Good Fellas
- China Town
- King Ivory
- Murder 8
- Tango & Cash
- Dance Fever
- Friend
- China Girl
- Great Bear
- Jackpot
- He-Man

FENTANYL AND OVERDOSES

- Fentanyl overdoses are rising globally and locally.
- A small amount can be lethal; even accidental exposure poses severe risks.

FENTA NAH'S STORY

At the heart of Fenta Nah lies a deeply personal mission driven by the profound losses experienced by our founder. Tracy Robinson, the Founder and Executive Director, established Fenta Nah following the devastating loss of her daughter, Abresha Oates. Witnessing the continued toll of fentanyl-related deaths even after Abresha's passing, Tracy recognized the urgent need for action.

Joining the cause is Shei'Vonne Weber VP and Director of Operations, who became part of the team after losing her sister to a fentanyl overdose. Abresha, Shei'Vonne's baby sister, left a void that triggered profound feelings of depression. Motivated by the belief that no one should endure such pain, Shei'Vonne Weber designed programs tailored not only to address the needs of our community but also to support those who, like the founder and herself, lost loved ones to fentanyl-related tragedies.

FENTA NAH'S VISION

At Fenta Nah, our vision extends far beyond organizational boundaries. We are committed to reaching global heights, providing counseling and bereavement support groups for the parents/families grappling with grievance, empowering the youth, and becoming a pivotal resource for those grappling with addiction. More than an organization, Fenta Nah is a dedicated force against the alarming number of fentanyl-related deaths. Our journey begins in our communities, aiming to create a ripple effect that spans across the globe.

FENTA NAH'S MISSION

Fenta Nah is more than a name; it's a promise to combat the staggering toll of fentanyl-related fatalities. Through impactful awareness campaigns, comprehensive educational initiatives, and unwavering support programs, Fenta Nah stands as a beacon of hope. Our mission is clear: prevent further loss, educate communities, and offer solace to those profoundly affected by the fentanyl epidemic.

CONTACT US

www.fentanah.org

@Fenta_Nah

1201 El Camino Ave
Sacramento, CA 95815

Fentanyl overdose can be life-threatening, and it's crucial to recognize the signs promptly.

Common signs of a fentanyl overdose include:

- Extreme Drowsiness or Inability to Stay Awake: Individuals may appear excessively sleepy or have difficulty staying awake.
- Difficulty Breathing: Shallow or slow breathing, difficulty taking a breath, or respiratory distress.
- Confusion or Disorientation: Mental confusion, disorientation, or unresponsiveness to stimuli.
- Pinpoint Pupils: Constricted pupils (pinpoint pupils) that do not respond to changes in light.
- Blue or Pale Skin: Cyanosis, a bluish or pale tint to the lips, face, or extremities, indicating a lack of oxygen.
- Cold or Clammy Skin: The skin may feel cold or clammy to the touch.
- Weakness or Limpness: Muscular weakness or limpness, making it difficult for the individual to move.
- Gurgling or Choking Sounds: Noises such as gurgling or choking, indicating potential respiratory distress.
- Inability to Respond: Lack of response to stimuli or attempts to communicate.

If you suspect someone is experiencing a fentanyl overdose, it is crucial to seek emergency medical help immediately. Administering naloxone (Narcan), if available, can reverse the effects of the overdose temporarily and provide more time for emergency medical professionals to arrive. Additionally, staying with the person and providing reassurance can be important until help arrives. Remember, time is of the essence in responding to a fentanyl overdose.

What to Do If You Think Someone Is Overdosing on Fentanyl

- Recognize the Signs - Difficulty breathing, extreme drowsiness, and confusion are red flags.
- Call Emergency Services - Dial 911 immediately.
- Administer Naloxone (Narcan)- Learn how to use this life-saving antidote. Attend a Fenta Nah training sessions!
- Try to keep victim alert don't let the fall asleep.
- Lay the victim on their side to prevent them from choking on vomit.
- Stay Until Help Arrives- Provide comfort and stay with the person until professionals arrive.

Join Us in Making a Difference

Fenta Nah invites you to be a part of this critical mission. Together, let's create a safer, more informed world. Through shared awareness, education, and support, we believe in making a tangible impact on the lives touched by the fentanyl crisis. Join Fenta Nah in our commitment to saving lives, beginning locally and resonating globally. Together, we can make a difference

Get Informed, Stay Safe!

Join Fenta Nah for educational sessions, training, and resources to combat the fentanyl crisis. Let's build a safer community together.

For more information, visit our website: www.fentanah.org

Follow Us:

Facebook-Fenta Nah

Vice President/Director of Operations

Shei'Vonne N. Weber

Sheivonne@fentanah.org

916-343-5032

Instagram-@Fenta_Nah

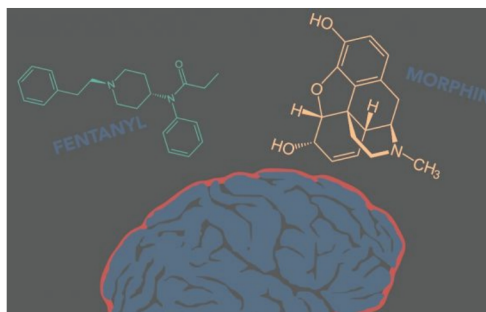

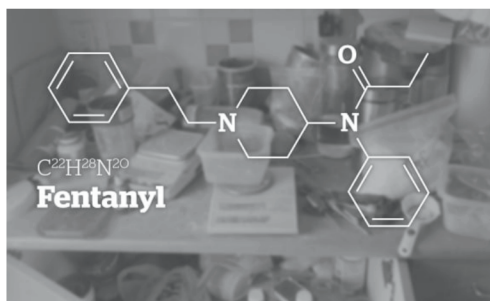

Founder/Executive Director

Tracy Robinson

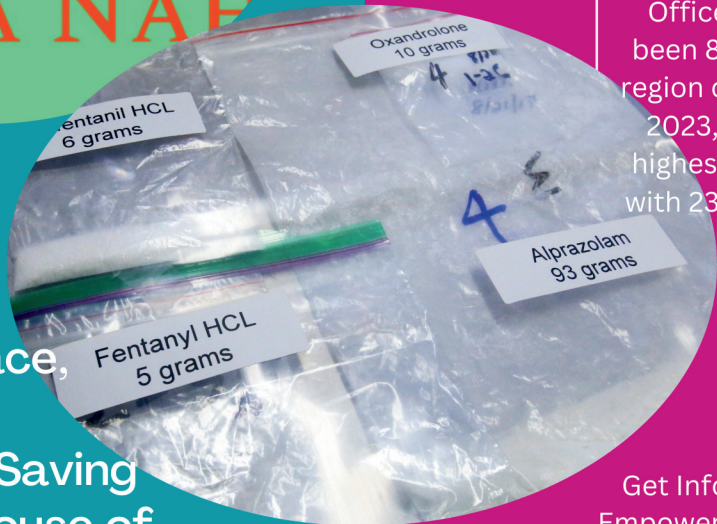

Tracy@fentanah.org

916-905-2839

FENTA NAH

"Providing Solace, Empowering Communities, Saving Lives: A Lighthouse of Hope in the Fight Against Fentanyl"

Fenta Nah is on a mission to serve as a beam of support, education, and empowerment for individuals and communities grappling with the devastating impact of the fentanyl epidemic. Our commitment extends beyond raising awareness; we aim to provide relief to those affected by grief, offering a guiding hand through compassionate programs and resources. Fenta Nah strives to be a leading force in the fight against fentanyl-related tragedies, advocating for change, and fostering a sense of community resilience.

In 2021 alone, opioids containing fentanyl were responsible for 67,325 preventable deaths. In Sacramento, the impact is not just a statistic; it's a stark reality. According to the California Department of Health, in 2021, Sacramento County reported 119 fentanyl-related deaths. Well Sacramento County Coroner's Office data shows there have been 831 fentanyl deaths in the region over the past five years. In 2023, fentanyl deaths are the highest it's been in a single year with 230 overdose deaths so far.

CALL FOR ACTION

Get Informed, Stay Protected
Empowering Communities Against Fentanyl Tragedies
Fenta Nah: Advocating Awareness, Education, and Support

Contact Info

For more information, you can contact us. A village easing the pain together

-  +1 916-343-5032
-  sheivonne@fentanah.org
-  tracy@fentanah.org-916-905-2839
-  @Fenta_Nah - Fenta Nah -Facebook
-  1201 El Camino Ave, Saramento, CA 95815

www.fentanah.org

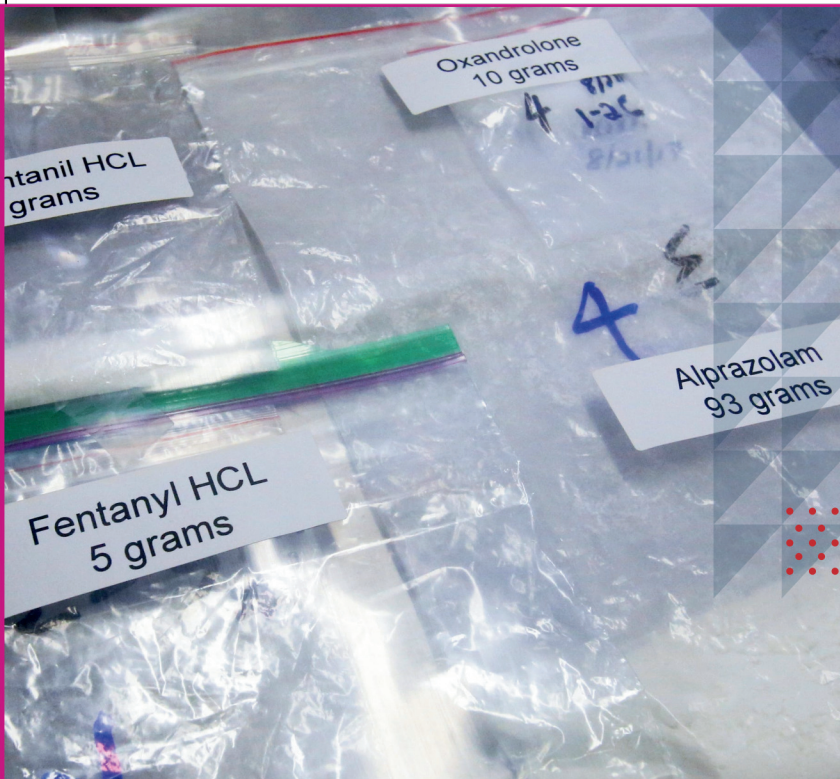

Fenta Nah's Programs

- Bereavement Support Groups
- Fentanyl Awareness Kits
- Fentanyl Awareness Classes
- Fenta Nah's Funeral Fund
- Fenta Nah's College Fund
- Youth Outreach Program
- Crisis Hotline Service
- Naloxone Training
- Community Engagement

"A World Without Fentanyl-Related Tragedies."

In envisioning a brighter future, Fenta Nah sees itself as more than an organization; it's a sanctuary for those navigating the challenging path of grief. Simultaneously, we aspire towards a global landscape where the devastating impact of fentanyl becomes a distant memory. Our vision is grounded in creating a world where communities are empowered, tragedies are prevented, and the pain inflicted by fentanyl is replaced with hope, awareness, and lasting change.

“Educate, Prevent, Save Lives”

Fenta Nah focuses on Harm Reduction we provide and offer:

Distribution of Naloxone Kits

- Fentanyl Test Strips
- Safe Disposal Initiatives

Education

- Fentanyl Awareness Classes
- Community Outreach Programs

Collaboration with Schools

- Partner with educational institutions to integrate fentanyl awareness into curricula.
- Foster a culture of prevention and informed decision-making among students.

Support and Resources

1. Never using alone get support from the Never Use Alone hotline at 1-800-484-3731
2. Having regular conversations with teens, young people and loved ones
3. 24/7 National Helpline— 800-662-HELP (4357)
4. Test with Fentanyl test strips- Knowing what's in your drugs
5. Carrying naloxone on at all times you never know when you may need it.

“Together, We Make a Difference”
“NO Seal NO Deal” Fentanyl Kills!

To join our any of our programs please contact us on our direct line or sign up for classes and support groups online our website is listed below

www.fentanah.org